67-Year-Old Grandma Shocks Fellow Classmates at 50-year High School Reunion

Amazing Anti-aging Device Turns Back the Hands of Time

Lydia Kane, a 67-year-old grandmother of three faced the aging process gracefully just in time for her 50-year high school reunion. A member of the Philadelphia High School graduating class of 1970, Lydia shocked her fellow alumni when she showed up at the reunion looking as though she drank straight from the fountain of youth.

Having lived in Phoenix, Arizona, also known as “The Valley of the Sun,” for over 30 years, Lydia’s skin had begun showing premature signs of aging when she was in her late thirties. Being very active and spending most of her free time outdoors in the dessert sun, the sun’s effects showed on her face.

“I enjoyed spending hours in the Arizona sun, never realizing it was causing premature damage to my skin.”

She began experimenting with various facial serums and creams, but decades of prolonged exposure to the harsh desert sun, combined with the natural hormonal changes brought on by menopause, wouldn't be erased with any amount of lotion.

“Facials were enjoyable, but costly and totally ineffective!”

By the time she reached her mid-60's, Lydia had invested thousands of dollars on products and services claiming to erase wrinkles, reduce lines and lighten dark spots.

“I bathed in the sun almost every day in my twenties without a single thought to the damage it was causing!”

“I spent thousands on expensive skincare products, Botox and Collagen injections, facials, chemical peels and microdermabrasion treatments, Lydia confessed.

Not seeing any real results, she started to think plastic surgery might be her only option, but surgery was painful and extremely expensive. She started to believe nothing would help. When the invitation to her high school reunion arrived in the mail last fall, she was excited at the thought of seeing her old friends, but at the same time, dreaded the thought of facing them.

“Having moved to Arizona at the age of 18 to attend college, I spent a lot of time outdoors and I enjoyed show-off my west coast tan whenever I’d go back East to visit,” Lydia admitted.

“I never thought something that lifted my confidence in my youth would be the cause of low self-esteem later in life.”

But years of sun exposure showed on her face.

“I didn’t want to face my old school pals back East looking like an old piece of leather,” she went on to say.

A Pennsylvania native, Lydia moved to Arizona in the 1980’s. Having suffered with cystic acne all her life, she enjoyed the way a good suntan would dry her skin and cover up her acne scars. Taking full advantage of the year-round warm climate and exercising regularly outdoors to stay healthy, she didn’t notice the severe effects that prolonged sun exposure was having on her skin until the birth of her daughter in her mid-thirties. It wasn't until she went back East in 2010 for a wedding when she noticed her childhood best friend did look young enough to be her daughter!

That's when Lydia decided it was time to face the music and began her quest to reverse the damage the sun had done to her skin.

For the next decade, Lydia started wearing sunscreen, spending hundreds of dollars a month on expensive skincare products and investing thousands of dollars a year on injections and various skincare treatments.

"Nothing was working," she added, sadly. "I felt so discouraged and had to face the fact that the damage might not be reversible."

When the invitation to her 50-year high school reunion came, she started to think plastic surgery was her only hope, but it was cost prohibitive and painful.

"I was days away from declining to attend my 50th high school reunion because I felt so ashamed to show my face," Lydia explained. "I knew everyone would say I got what I deserved for tanning my skin for so many years."

That's when a friend told her about this amazing, painless, and affordable device, LumaWand, and she decided to give it a try.

“I tried the LumaWand and the hyaluronic acid serum that came free with the order for just 10 minutes every day, as directed. After only a few days, I noticed a difference!”

Lydia applied the free hyaluronic serum directly to the metal heads on the LumaWand and massaged it into the affected areas every day. After just two weeks, her acne scars became less visible. The overall texture of her skin began to improve. Even her dark spots looked lighter!

“I looked younger than I had in years,” Lydia exclaimed, “like I’d taken a drink from the fountain of youth!”

Lydia began to feel so confident in her skin's improvement that she decided to RSVP "yes" to the reunion invite. Over the next month, she continued her LumiWand every day. The fine lines around her lips and eyes began to diminish drastically; the overall surface of her skin became dramatically smoother and the dark pigmentation from years spent in the hot Arizona sun began to fade.

"I looked great and felt even better and couldn't wait to get back to Pennsylvania for the reunion," Lydia continued.

"Feeling confident for the first time in years and seeing my oldest and dearest friends felt amazing... thanks to my LumiWand!"

Lydia did return to her native state to attend her 50th high school reunion and she was sure to pack her new miracle device in her suitcase. When she walked in, the same friend she had seen several years before, didn't even recognize her. This time Lydia looked like she was the one young enough to be her daughter.

When asked what her secret was, she almost kept the news to herself, but she decided to share her secret with all her former schoolmates. Soon, they were all ordering their own amazing LumaWand LED Skin Rejuvenating Wand.

“The All-New, FDA Approved LumaWand changed my life. I feel like I drank from the fountain of youth!”

Lydia is facing the aging process with grace. Instead of investing thousands of dollars on painful surgery and useless lotions and potions, she continues to use her miracle LumaWand every day.

With a little help from LumaWand, she was able to save face and enjoy her class reunion.

“LumaWand gave me the confidence to enjoy my high school reunion!”
